JUNIORS

The rare distinction of the youngest member winning the club championship was achieved by Douglas Ranger in 1933. He was sixteen years old when he defeated his brother Kenneth, aged 18, in the final. They had joined the club three years earlier and at the time of the final both boys played off a handicap of three. Their father, Bill Ranger, was club captain from 1932 until 1933. The family returned to live in their native England at the end of 1935, but Kenneth remained in Australia to attend Point Cook in Victoria and pursue an air force career.

Peter Davies was admitted to membership at the age of sixteen in 1949. His contribution to the Club is outlined in Champion Golfers – Men.

A Junior Club was formed in 1955 and records indicate an active Intermediate and Junior Members Association (IJMA) in the 1960's and 1970's with the young people enjoying social gatherings at car rallies and movie nights.

In 1964 Drew Tovey became the first Queenslander to win the Australian Schoolboys Championship. (See Champion Golfers – Men).

Other juniors to star in Club events during that era include the Egan brothers, Paul and Peter, who were also members of the winning 1975 junior pennant team (see Pennants – Men).

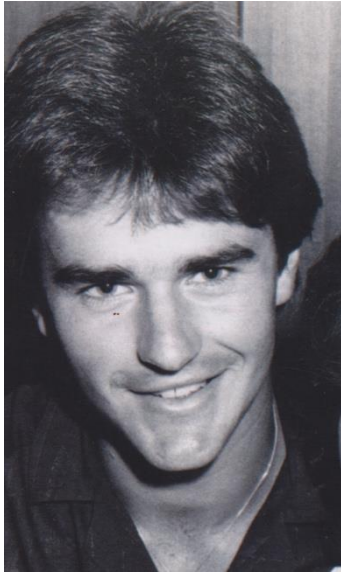

Greg Norman was a member of Indooroopilly for eleven months during his teenage years, before returning to Virginia Golf Club in 1974.

In the 1980's Danny Spencer and George Gunderson were successful in attracting junior golfers from country areas to Indooroopilly. This program helped the Club win their first men's open pennant for many years in 1986.

JUNIORS

Richard Backwell

Richard Backwell played in the Junior World Cup for Australia in 1980 at St Andrewes Scotland. He joined IGC as a 17 year old in 1981 from his home in Toowoomba. Richard had fond memories of George Gunderson who looked out for him and a couple of other young country recruits at the time.

He won two club championships in 1982 and 1986 before taking up a golf scholarship in the USA. After graduating with a Diploma in Business, he turned pro golfer in 1990. Richard lived in the US for 13 years and played in many countries, though mostly on the Japanese tour from 1993 to 2003, before returning to live on the Gold Coast.

Marty Roberts was Club Champion in 1988. He won the Doug Sanders World Junior Teams Championship in Scotland with Shane Tait in the same year. The following year he won the Australian Junior Championship.
