A Short History

Indooroopilly Golf Club was established in 1926 with the original 18-hole course situated at St Lucia.

The Club owes its existence to Bernard Boulton, a young and enthusiastic accountant and Taringa Shire councillor, who instigated the first meeting to discuss the formation of a club at Indooroopilly. He subsequently became the Club's first patron.

One hundred and twenty four acres of freehold land at St Lucia were purchased from thirteen different owners for $17,000. The land included a homestead, part of which was retained to become the first clubhouse.

Scottish-born professional golfer and course designer, Dan Soutar, was engaged to lay out the course at a cost of seventy-five guineas plus hotel and travel expenses. On Saturday 3 July 1926 the first nine holes were opened by the Premier of Queensland, the Hon. W. McCormick.

At the end of 1926 the second nine was in play and the Club had engaged the services of celebrated Scottish architect, Dr Alistair Mackenzie, to recommend improvements to the layout. Dr Mackenzie had just completed a major re-design of Royal Melbourne's West Course and later went on to design Augusta and Cypress Point in the USA.

In the decade following World War II membership more than doubled to 898, forcing the Club at that time to put a ceiling on future applications. With a 15-year waiting list for membership and demand still increasing, the Club purchased 140 riverside acres at Moggill to build an 18-hole championship course.

Plans for Moggill were shelved in 1962 when the Brisbane City Council called tenders for the lease of an area of Sir John Chandler Park at Long Pocket – only three quarters of a mile from the St Lucia clubhouse – to be developed as a sporting and recreation area. Because of its proximity the Club submitted a tender and obtained a 21-year lease of about 180 acres.

Sydney course architect, Al Howard, designed an 18-hole course and head greenkeeper, Jack Surman, directed most of the course construction. A modest clubhouse was completed and the new complex was opened by the Lord Mayor of Brisbane, Alderman Clem Jones, on Sunday 8 March 1964.

In 1973 the Club agreed to exchange the St Lucia course and clubhouse for 200 acres of freehold land adjoining the existing Long Pocket layout on which another 18 holes with a new clubhouse could be built. At the same time the lease of the original 18 holes at Long Pocket was extended to 2058. It would, however, be twelve years before the transition was made, such was the scale of the scheme.

Architect, Bob Green, from Sydney was appointed to design the new complex in 1976. This was to include changes to the existing course with four loops of 9 holes, each returning to a central clubhouse.

FLEXIBILITY

A grand new clubhouse was opened on Sunday 15 December 1985 by Queensland Governor and Club Patron, Sir Walter Campbell.

The original 18 holes became known as the 'Old Course' and the second 18 holes was called the 'New Course'. The older layout was later renamed the West Course and the second 18 holes became the East Course.

Indooroopilly has seen some famous golfers grace its courses over the years, including Walter Hagen, who won 11 majors in his career, Gene Sarazen (seven majors), Bobby Locke (four) and Gary Player (nine). We have also welcomed American, Babe Didrickson, arguably the greatest female athlete of the time.

NOTE: The basis of the information provided has been extracted from the booklet A Half Century of Golf 1926- 1976 at Indooroopilly Golf Club by Jack Lunn and the later update by Ian Arnold (unpublished manuscript).

Members' Golf

If you like competitive golf, Indooroopilly is a great choice. The Club offers Pennant play for men, women, seniors and juniors, together with a host of Honour Board competitions and more relaxed social golfing events.

As well as the regular weekly competitions there are a host of Honour Board competitions to be competed for, each carrying an accompanying trophy, with perhaps the most prestigious being the Club Championships which feature strokeplay qualifying rounds before knockout matchplay decides the overall winner.

Whether your favourite format is singles or pairs, strokeplay or matchplay, a one-day event to find the winner or a knockout competition running throughout the season you will find something to appeal at Indooroopilly. You do not need to be a scratch golfer, with a good selection of competitions run against handicap, providing everyone an opportunity to get their hands on some silverware.

With Indooroopilly Golf Club having such a rich and illustrious history, it will come as little surprise to learn that there are a host of longstanding trophies to compete for. The Sir Leslie Wilson Cup, Moxon Cup (handicap fourball) and Iona Cup (handicap foursomes), for example, all predate World War II.

On a weekly basis the men enjoy competitions at the Club on Wednesdays and Saturdays, the women on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Mixed golf is an extremely enjoyable and important part of Club life and medley competitions are played on Fridays and Sundays.

It's not all about winning, however. There are also plenty of opportunities for social golf for those who want to get together and enjoy the course and the company of good friends.

Juniors

Indooroopilly Golf Club is a great supporter of junior golf. We value their contribution to the Club and appreciate that if nurtured and given support, they are the potential core membership of the future.

For their part, juniors can learn so much from golf. As well as being a hugely enjoyable sport, it teaches many life skills such as common courtesy, good manners and playing by rules.

The Club has made junior membership fees extremely attractive, with significantly reduced membership fees available to Juniors aged 14 to 17 years and to our Intermediate members aged 18 to 20 and 21 to 24 years respectively.

The Club holds frequent junior clinics from a beginner level to advanced, all aimed at improving their technique and their enjoyment of the game.

For details of the latest clinics, check out the Club website, or phone the Golf Shop on (07) 3721 2122. For membership enquiries, phone (07) 3721 2113.

The Club's corporate packages allow companies to entertain their best clients and reward employees at one of Queensland's best golf facilities just a short drive from the CBD.

As Brisbane's premier golf course, we understand the importance of a successful corporate golf day - not only for your guests but also for your company. The experienced staff at Indooroopilly Golf Club will take the pressure off you as we manage the logistics of your event.

A variety of prizes for your day are also available from our Golf Shop where you can choose from well known brands at a competitive rate.

Our friendly professional team can also provide you with all the assistance you and your group require. They are available for personal golfing tuition or can arrange group golfing clinics before play if desired.
